Biography

Cody Bellinger began his competitive baseball career in 2007 with the Chandler National Little League Baseball Team. The team was coached by his father, Carl Bellinger, who spent four years on the New York Yankees lineup. Though Cody was the youngest member of the team, he saw his little team to the quarter finals of the 2007 Little League World Series.

Bellinger stood out in his time at Hamilton High School (Class of 2014) and was regarded highly by his coaches and his teammates. The Hamilton Huskies Baseball team won the State Championship in Cody Bellinger's senior year, voting him as Team MVP, and was labeled as the school's "best season ever." In less than a month after his championship game, Cody Bellinger had already been contracted to the LA Dodgers and committed to the University of Oregon.

Cody Bellinger opted for the Dodgers contract over the Oregon commitment, and quickly rose through the Dodgers' AA and AAA levels before getting pulled up to the Major League team mid-season in 2017. Bellinger was brought up to fill in offensive gaps in the outfield for the Dodgers and showed off his impressive hitting capability to the Major Leagues.

In an impressive Rookie year, Bellinger's first season to the big leagues was filled with impressive accolades such as the National League Rookie of the Year, a Homerun Derby Participant, two National League Rookie of the Awards, an MLB Outstanding rookie, and was in the top 10 to be considered for MLB MVP. He has since moved to his traditional role as a First Baseman for the Dodgers, where he seeks to be a valuable asset to the team.
